The latest Document Converter Server comes with the new Auto-print SDK, which includes stability improvements for printing certain PDF documents generated by Ghostscript, detecting corrupted PDF documents and detecting password protection in certain PDF documents.

The latest Auto-print SDK also includes new Visual Studio 2015 solution and project files for the sample applications, further improvements for the registration, and for printing email files such as MSG and EML.

The complete list of improvements in the latest Document Converter Server include the following:

- Added Upload to Web feature
- Minor improvements on the Demo window
- Stability improvements for printing with 6 or more printer drivers simultaneously
- Updated Printer Driver to version 14.76.1615
- Added filename generation option: "Use the Document Name with the Output Directory from an INI file"
- Added option to Custom file naming to read the Output Directory from an INI file
- The printer driver now generates an empty txt file for text output even if the printed page contains no text
- Stability improvement for Content Based Email Sending and Mail Merge when printing certain documents, including PDF files and Web pages
- Stability improvement for the Text Output (In some cases the Printer Driver inserted extra space characters into the text output)
- Stability improvement for registration on certain systems
- Stability improvement for uninstallation after the registration number was entered instead of the serial number during manual registration
- Updated Manuals
